SON: I've literally put every item I've come across into my mouth. When I interact with a new object, I'm gonna look at it for a little bit. I'm gonna reach out and poke it, see if it moves around. I'm gonna pick it up. Wiggle it back and forth. And then it goes all the way in my mouth. And if that thing doesn't try to get out of my mouth, then it's going down the hatch. If you ask me, it's a pretty smart way to do things. The other day, I put a scorpion in my mouth. He jumped out. He knew the rules; he played the game. I respect him for that. Maybe this grass should have done the same.
